It's heavy

On the way back home after shopping

One day in Korea while we were seeing each other.

After Mev tidied up his closet,
we went shopping for some new clothes.

Our arms and shoulders were very tired becouse of the heavy shopping bags.

I felt much better after I gave one of my bags to Mev.

But Mev seemed very tired
so we stopped walking for a short while.

Then I suddenly remembered something that happened a long time ago.

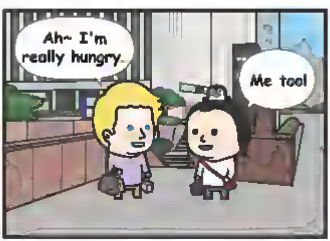
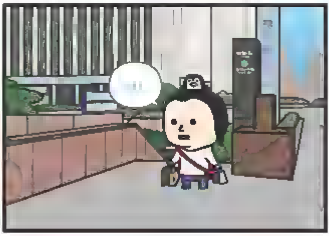
His shopping bags were quite heavy because we bought a lot of things and they were all thick clothes for autumn and winter.



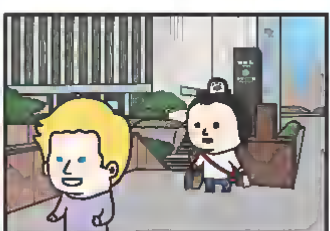
Anyway we were walking towards a hamburger shop to fill our empty bellies.

A mischievous boy, Mev.

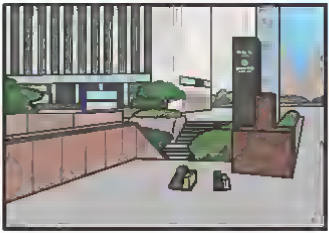


I was shocked but ...

... soon I calmed down and walked towards him.

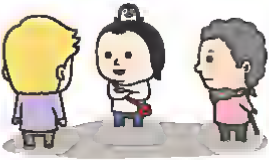


He ran away after
he gave me of all his bags..



Well, of course, without the bags.

There was an old lady who was watching what happened and she said.



She was on my side.

Do you think he would've been on your side?

Mev said he was looking for an elderly man on the way back to pick up the bags.
